Only a few weeks ago a little child ran into the street to play with its mother's kiss still warm upon its lips, and in less than ten minutes it was carried back to her dead, mangled by one of these daminable things, the trolley cars on Amsterdam avenue. When the first child is hurt, or the first life crushed out, the people should rise and let, the persons behind this corporation feel the lash so that they will tremble as long as they walk the descerated streets of New York.

Louis A. Lehmaler-Every man who went to Albany with us the other day represented hundreds of others who are in daily terror of a dreadful summons to their homes and the news that these cars have killed one of their children. That is what they fear to-day with only two tracks devoted to the trolley in Amsterdam avenue. If four tracks should come to multiply these dangers I believe that these people would take the law into their same.
